This situation has opened our minds to see our flaws and gave us a chance to make radical changes in our self development, self awareness, and pursuing to giving something back to earth.

Normally to solve a problem you have to analyze and find the core issue causing it, and if you try to make it work one time maybe the next time the same issue appears again but with more complications.

So simply; in order to nurture our planet and take care of it. Each person has to nurture themselves and try to learn to be selfless like our earth.

While the two other points will each have a leaf shaped card with a question. One will be about a personal flaw that they want to let go of, and the other is about a strength point that they love about themselves.

And as they reach the tree area, they will have to hang card 1 on a leafless branch and allow it to take it-s time but eventually wall.. and place card 2 under the tree.to feed the roots with love.

The placement of the mirrors will make the visitors see themselves in many different perspectives along moving in their path. The lighting of the paths will be dim to allow them to stay focused on only themselves and their way to the tree.
